Kingston Youth Orchestra

Come and join our vibrant community of young musicians which includes two string ensembles and a full youth orchestra.

The Kingston Youth Orchestra was established in 1968 by then local violinist Edouard Bartlett and continues as Eastern Ontario's premier instrumental ensemble for young musicians.

“Young string players will learn to play orchestral music in a supportive and nurturing environment under the leadership of Kingston Symphony violinist Danielle Lennon.”

“The Kingston Youth Orchestra is directed by award-winning conductor and music educator Hugh Johnston.”

The Kingston Youth Orchestra is under the umbrella of the Kingston Symphony Association which, besides us, includes a choir, a community string orchestra, and its flagship ensemble the Kingston Symphony, an outstanding professional orchestra. The Kingston Youth Orchestra depends on these resources for leadership and professional development. The Kingston Youth Orchestra includes the following three ensembles.

Kingston A-Strings

The Kingston A-Strings is a beginner string ensemble working on unison playing in a relaxed comfortable atmosphere (younger string players at book 1 to early book 2 level).

Kingston Youth Strings

The Kingston Youth Strings is an intermediate string ensemble performing exciting music of various genres leading to an introduction to orchestral technique and style. Students in this ensemble generally advance to the youth orchestra.

Kingston Youth Orchestra

The Kingston Youth Orchestra is the only full orchestra (strings, winds, brass, and percussion) for teens in the Kingston area. The Kingston Youth Orchestra performs a wide range of music at an intermediate/advanced level, from masterworks to pops, in a regular concert series as well as festivals and outreach concerts. The Kingston Youth Orchestra draws its membership from our own string preparatory groups as well as many other local string programs and private teachers in Kingston and the area. Most of our wind, brass, and percussion players come from Kingston area high schools and private teachers.
